Dear Old Lane

Words By A. M. Smith
Arranged By Prof. I. J. Berry
(Tune) Home Beloved—By Pusey

Fair Lane 'tis thee we love so well,
'Tis thee of whom we love to tell,
Of friendly years of college life,
Of college years with pleasure rise;
Of years we look upon with joy,
Of years we could but help employ
Our minds in ecstasy when soon
We would begin this happy tune.

Long may our loved college live
For we our zealous help will give,
And give it too with might and main
To that dear school we love, our Lane.
When out upon life's rugged sea,
We then will turn and think of thee,
We'll think of days we spent with you,
Of days we cheered the red and blue.

When troubles rise to dim our way
We'll know no other words to say,
And say them o'er and o'er again,
We love you dearest, fairest Lane.
Long may our loved college live
For we our zealous help will give,
And give it too with might and main
To that dear school we love, our Lane.
Foreword--

THE aim of this book is to count only the cheerful hours and pleasant memories filled with toil and labor. If there have been mistakes—profit by them; if there have been pleasant memories—cherish them. If this volume in its condensed form can bring to you memories of a prosperous and enjoyable year at Lane, and picture to the people the true Christian spirit of the institution—we shall, as all fairy tales end—live happily ever after, for we shall have accomplished our aim.

SAM. H. BRONAUGH,
Editor-in-Chief.

Dedication--

To the loyal and devoted friends of Lane, who by their unyielding interest and unswerving efforts have proved their sincere devotion by the profound interest maintained in contributing so loyalty in making it possible for the development of a bigger and better Lane, for the educating of the youth of our Race—we, the staff of 1928, dedicate this, the seventh volume of The Lanite.

College

The pages through which you have just looked do not picture the college in its fullness. A college means more than a number of buildings, trees, and an enormous amount of campus space. A college is a living thing, composed of students and teachers; the former delighted in their pursuit of intra and extra curricula activities; the latter zealous in their efforts to train their students and finding sincere pleasure in guiding them in whatever uplifting endeavor they may undertake.

You will have to live a college life in order to feel and get the real significance of the word "college".

We can only offer you this record of information and amusement in order that you might be able to see in after years what has happened and bring to yourself pleasant memories and sweet reminiscences of Lane.

BISHOP I. LANE

Lives of Great Men

"Lives of great men, all remind us,
We can make our lives sublime;
And departing leave behind us,
Foot prints on the sands of time."

The life of our own Bishop Isaac Lane has indeed been an example to us as that of a great man. As one glances back into the history of this, our beloved institution, he is convinced that Bishop Lane has left his foot-prints on the sands of time. Blessed above many is this great man, because he has built for himself a monument and now he lives and sees it grow.

The life of Washington reminds us of bravery, truth and loyalty. The life of Lincoln reminds us of honesty and freedom. We may recall the lives of an innumerable number of great men and the impression that they have left, yet none have made a greater impression on the students, graduates and former students of Lane College than this man whose name carries with it morality, self-sacrifice, perseverance and humanitarianism.

—KARLINE HARDY.
Lane College History

Forty-five years ago Lane College was founded by the Colored Methodist Church in America. Looking to the establishment of this enterprise, November, 1878, a resolution was presented by the Rev. J. K. Daniel to the Tennessee Annual Conference, held in Nashville, Tennessee, and conducted by the sainted Bishop Miles, of the C. M. E. Church. The resolution was filed. A committee was appointed by the Conference and plans were inaugurated to advance the intended work.

A severe epidemic of 1878 hindered the progress of the committee. During this time Bishop Isaac Lane was appointed as presiding Bishop of the Tennessee Conference. He met the committee, gave advice and helped to form plans for the founding of the school. After having met with a number of difficulties, those assembled decided, at the Conference in 1879, with their small sum of finance, to purchase a lot at Jackson, Tennessee, as a convenient location for this institution. Four acres of land were purchased January 15, 1880, with $240.00. Thus the work had its beginning which has been a religious and an educational factor to a great mass of uprising humanity throughout the Southland.

After a lot was purchased, a greater task made its appearance, which task was the construction of a comfortable building for instruction. Through efforts put forth by Bishop Lane and his co-workers, funds were obtained and a building was begun in November of the same year. Miss Jennie E. Lane was the first teacher in this C. M. E. High School. It was instructed by her until January of the next year, when the term was successfully completed by Professor J. H. Harper, L.L. D., of Jackson, Tennessee.

In 1883 the school was chartered under the laws of the State of Tennessee. This resulted in a change of title, from the "C. M. E. High School" to "Lane Institute." The progress of the school was wonderful. The increasing number of students in 1889 was greater than the accommodating capacity; which resulted in the erection of a two-story frame building at a cost of $2,500.00. This also served as a girls' dormitory for some years. Demands grew greater as the time continued, causing a central auditorium to be erected, having beautiful towers with trimmings of stone, at a cost of $25,000.00.

Rev. J. F. Saunders, D. D., was appointed in 1887 as Lane's first president. A member of the Memphis Conference, he served as president for fifteen years. His work was successful and pleasing to the Board of Trustees.

In 1896, to meet a long-felt need, the College Department was organized and its name became Lane College—which name may it ever retain, and surround with moral and religious intelligence many thousands of Ham's sable sons.

Rev. J. A. Bray, A. M., L.L. D., was selected as second president. He was a member of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church. His term began the 17th day of November, 1906. Within a year the outstanding building was consumed by fire. Appeals were made to friends everywhere to help, and in 1906 the main hall was constructed, which cost $25,000.00. Three years as president Rev. Bray labored successfully. During this time many changes were made in respect to the progress of the institution. Rev. Bray retired at the close of the third term and took up work elsewhere.

The Trustees met in May, 1907, and elected J. F. Lane, A. M., Ph. D., president. He now stands at the head of the College. Knowing thoroughly the hardships which the school had come through, as well as its objective purposes, he has contributed much to the advancement of the seat of learning.

The Girls' Hall was built in 1908, with a dining hall, kitchen, bath rooms, reception hall, and with a metal roof, having beautiful stone trimmings. This is a handsome three-story building with modern conveniences, costing about $16,000.00. During the winter of 1908-1909 a steam heating plant was installed at a cost of $7,000.00. All buildings are steam heated and electrically lighted. Through the Educational Board of New York in 1911, President Lane received $7,000.00 to build the Boy's Dormitory. Immediately the work began and was completed in 1914, a three-story brick building, with all modern equipment. It is the home of the College Dean, young men, and also contains a Y. M. C. A. room and guest room.

The school grew with such rapidity that in 1919 it was discovered that another building was needed, and the conclusion of this discovery was the erection of the Cleavers' Hall. This Hall is a three-story, brick construction, with all modern conveniences, containing domestic art, science and music departments. This hall is also occupied by the upper class young ladies. It was completed in 1921 at a cost of $70,000.00.

For vocational training of ex-service men at the close of the world war, the U. S. Veterans' Bureau selected Lane College for this purpose. This necessitated a trades building and in 1923 a building was erected at a cost of $15,000.00 and dedicated to the service of the people. It is a two-story brick structure. It serves now as the Science Hall. The College auditorium was destroyed in 1921. In 1924, by the faithful efforts of interested men, the college auditorium was completed, a brick building which has a balcony and has a seating capacity of about 1,500 people.

The location of these buildings is on a campus that is enticing to every one. The campus presents a beautiful inclined view. It is beautifully decorated with trees and flowers of different species. Behind the buildings the babbling brook makes its way across the campus. The attraction and beauty of the campus is made wonderful to behold by these various objects. Health is vigorous, attraction is unequalled, and the environment and mental conditions are unsurpassed. The pleasure that one is able to obtain from the breezes on the balmy air on this beautiful campus prompts one with a desire to come back after he has gone away.

Prescription For Success

Give twelve (12) ounces of common sense.
Give twelve (12) ounces of consideration.
Put over a good fire of self-respect.
Roll down to two (2) ounces of forgetfulness.
Sweeten with humanity.
Take twice 30 drops, 3 times a day before meals.

This prescription can be filled at the House of Understanding, next door to Reason on Independent Street.

Pray to God three times a day on bowed knees in the City of Contentment.

A. S. SIMS
Business Manager

I have been thoroughly convinced that college is a necessary preparation for the duties of life's work. At college one receives the spirit to fathom out the difficult problems that are met while rendering service to humanity. After having been honored with the position as business manager of the 1928 Lantern, I became aware that the real problems had to be studied from every angle, and in executing this duty I have tried to put forth my best efforts. With the co-operation of others and their tremendous effort to work, believing that unity is a conservative necessity and not publicity, I believe our task accomplished.

To my fellow classmates, I am grateful to have been chosen to do this work. By virtue of my position, the principles of unity will be magnified in me, enriching me with such tenacity as will enable me to fight with courage, the things of life that will make the outside world a better place in which to live.

What is Your Attitude When You Hear--

All right now, I'll cut your mark.
Young Men!! Time Up!!!
I want to call the attention of the young people to this—
That statement nearly shocked me into insensibility.
Do not put your credits on your course cards until you have seen me.
Lower your voices, you're talking too loud. Those who have not contributed to the campaign will see me before the week end.
We thank thee for coming out tonight—
Well, I'll stop until you're through.
Hear him! Hear him!
The only way to get in Chapel on time is to begin in time.
All persons interested in debating will meet me in my class room for five minutes.
No, just a mark of human intelligence.
It pains me like ugliness.
"You see what I mean."

Senior Class History

Four years ago our class of eighteen embarked on the grand old ship, Lane, and started on a perilous voyage. During those eventful years of storm and stress, our courage has never failed us and now we find ourselves coming into port.

As we anchor in this port, each will leave the ship with a Degree in his possession. Then we may see the Land of Success lying out before us. As we separate and travel through this land, each in his own chosen path, we shall ever cherish the memories of the happy days spent in the spacious state-rooms and on the rolling deck of the Grand Old Ship.

Never will we forget our trustworthy Captain and his faithful crew, who have so carefully guided our course for these years. As we, the passengers of 1928, bid farewell to the ship and those following our course, we treasure them and their lessons of greater service to humanity in our hearts. As we go, each to his chosen profession, we hope to plant the flag of our Alma Mater on the highest pinnacle of Success.

Last Will

At this sad hour, that we, the class of '28, are about to take our leave and start life in a real world of human experience; and as we have braved the storm of four or more years of hardships and trials, and as we have reached the glorious heights to which we have been so earnestly striving, we feel that we would not be serving our purpose and discharging our duty if we, after a bit of experience in college life would not leave any of our knowledge, intellect, our business ability, our talent for music and the finer arts to you, in order that you too might occupy the places that we now enjoy.

As the class of '29 follows closely in our footsteps, with the highest hopes and with all expectation of coming up to the mark we have placed before them, we leave to you, "Oh Junior"—the greatest gifts in all college privileges, for without these you can never feel the height of your dignity.

To the Sophomores we will Intelligence, which we find a very essential element in a college career.

To the Freshmen—"Application"—for perhaps the stuff is in you if you will only bring it out.

To the Fourth Year—"Tact"—in all fields of endeavor.

To the Third Year—"Stick-to-it-iveness."

To the Second Year—"Ability."

To the First Year—"Courage."

We leave you these with the hope that you will receive and make use of them, for there is much need for them in your journey through the years of your school life.
The Third Song

The Dining Hall is my haunted place where I shall not get,
It maketh me to lie down in hunger,
It restoreth my appetite,
It leadeth me in the paths of hungriness for its name sake;
Yea, though I visit classes all day and hunger much,
At meal time I shall fear no evil for it will not tempt me.
Its knives and forks taunt me.
They make a preparation without any cause:
Surely hunger and appetite shall follow me all the days of my college life,
And I shall dwell in Lane College until I have finished.

Punctuate the following sentence: That that is is that that is not is not that that is not is not that true?

A little nonsense, now and then,
Is relished by the wise men.—A. E. W.

Senior Teacher Training Class Prophecy

A Visit to Grandpa's

I went to visit my grandpa,
Who lives in the distant West,
I'll try to tell you a part of it,
And you can guess the rest.

Grandpa had sent me away to school,
For an education to get,
And during that time I'd made many friends,
Since many girls and boys I'd met.

His home was a prosperous city,
Where many young people go
To have success in their business,
Or get what grandpa calls "dough".

Emma D. Steele, Lucille Jordan,
And too, there was Elia Mae Rice;
I didn't see very much of them,
But I heard of them once or twice.

They were all teaching in public schools,
In a town not far away,
Now, grandpa tells me truthfully
That he sees them every day.

When he told me of a Preach tutor,
This was easy enough to manage;
For this was a private tutorship
To the home of "Baby Ruth" Hayes.

Patie Comer and Bertie Comer,
Were also teaching schools,
Fannie Mae Barnes, grandpa knew her,
She was using her well-sharpened tools.

Grandpa told me a story,
About Mason's Daniels and Sharp,
It ticked even grandpa himself,
And he was forced to laugh.

"Baby", those two old women,
Like the one who lived in the shoal,
Have so very much children,
They don't know what to do.

They place some in the pantry,
And others on the shelf.

But, don't let me forget Mrs. Anthony,
Who has just as many children.

We passed by a beautiful store one day,
Grandpa wouldn't let me stop;
But I noticed a sign printed over the door,
"Miss Lena Young's Style Shop".

I learned since then that Miss Bennett
With Miss Young was taking part.
They both are dainty dressmakers,
In the field of domestic art.

In a music conservatory,
Two blocks from grandpa's gate,
Miss Christine Scott taught music
That always suited her taste.

Cordia Duffey was in Social Service work,
So far as grandpa knew,
I may be mistaken but I think he said
That Lillie V. Thompson was too.

There was a college that grandpa knew;
It was not far away.
Miss Charlie Jones was matron there
And had gone to the school to stay.

Grandpa had supper one night,
For all my friends and me;
And each of us was as happy
As any one could be.

Grandpa knew all my classmates;
Some things he didn't know,
But he assured one thing and that thing
Was that all were doing well.

All are rendering service,
To mankind where'er they are,
I'm proud to see them making good;
Sighed my dear old aged grandpa.

Just as he spoke those words to me
And had not walked off the scene,
I opened my eyes, and to my surprise,
Grandpa's home and all was a dream.

—Fannie Mae Hayes.
Guide

He who knows and knows he knows, he is a Senior, watch him.
He who knows and knows not he knows, he is a Junior, wake him.
He who knows not and knows not that he knows not—he is a Soph—avoid him.
He who knows not and knows he knows not, he is a Freshman—?

Care should be taken, not that the hearer may understand, but that he MUST understand—Quintillian.
