Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority is a national Greek-letter society, organized at Howard University in Washington D.C., in January 1908. In a period of fifty years Alpha Kappa Alpha grew from one undergraduate chapter of nine members, to a national organization with an active membership of more than ten thousand women. The undergraduate chapters now draw members from more than 130 accredited colleges and graduate members are organized into 169 chapters located in thirty-six of the fifty states, Liberia, West Africa and the Bahamas.

The present structure, character and personality of Alpha Kappa Alpha have been determined not only by the natural growth of the organization itself but by the pressures of changing conditions in the society in which the sorority exists. As these two factors have changed, her membership standards—high scholarship, leadership, service, exemplary character—her program goals have been continually and progressively re-interpreted, so that the personal benefits which members derive from their affiliation are balanced and counter-balanced against the values deriving from the organization to the community of which it is a part.
Delta Sigma Theta is a national Greek-letter society, having 319 chapters located in 40 states, including Alaska, and also the Republics of Haiti and Liberia.

Delta Sigma Theta was founded at Howard University in Washington, D.C., on January 13, 1913 by a group of 22 undergraduate women who, on February 18, 1913, secured a Certificate of Incorporation for the infant sorority.

The sorority has evolved in the years of its existence a program with concern, not only for its own membership, but also for the general welfare of all. With a current membership of 45,000 women, the great majority of whom are Negro, Delta Sigma Theta has a vital interest in the welfare of minority groups and in human rights. To this end the sorority cooperates with other chosen agencies of social action. The high standards and ideals set by the founders have attracted to the ranks of the sorority thousands of women representing the finest in womanhood, whose individual and collective contributions to society have proved the importance of Delta Sigma Theta, not only as a sorority existing for the mutual devotion and inspiration of its members, but also as an organization dedicated to public service by which the larger society is benefited.
Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority, Incorporated was organized November 12, 1922 on Butler University campus in Indianapolis, Indiana, by Mary Lou Gardner and six other school teachers: Dorothy Hanley Whiteside, Vivian White Marberry, Nannie Mae Johnson, Hattie Mae Dalus Redford, Bessie M. Downey Martin, and Cubena McClure. Since its founding, more than 120 undergraduate and graduate chapters have been established throughout the country.

The purpose of their sorority for women is expressed in its slogan "Greater Service, Greater Progress." Activities are encouraged that will further in every way possible the advantages of its members intellectually, morally, and socially.
Zeta Phi Beta Sorority was organized at Howard University on January 16, 1920. It was the first Greek-letter College Sorority organized in Africa. There are eight regions in the United States. Zeta is known for its closeness and outstanding sisterly love.

Zeta Phi Beta Sorority Incorporated was organized on Lane College campus November 21, 1968 by seven charter members. The charter members are: Doris Allen, Katherine Herron, Dorothea Massey, Pearl McKinnie, Marilyn Perry and Shirley Wiley.

The five transfer students to the chapter are: Rita Buchanan, Carolyn Crudup, Jacolyn Fentress, Mamie Griggs, and Helen Hamilton.

Zeta Phi Beta Sorority strives toward finer womanhood, character and service.
Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc.—the first fraternity of color—was founded on December 4, 1906 at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York.

Beginning with its seven founders, more than 30,000 men have been initiated into Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity.

Interracial since 1945, there are now 330 chapters in 40 states, The District of Columbia, British West Indies, Europe and Africa.

Alpha Phi Alpha is bound together with common loyalty in the struggle for human dignity, with common causes for cultural enrichment; and with historic accomplishments in advancements.

Since 1906, Alpha Phi Alpha has stood dedicated to the principles on which this nation was founded and everywhere Alpha men have many victories of benefits to the country, but its most important service has been in the development of the scholars and creative leaders who will assist our country in meeting the challenges of the future.
Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity was founded January 5, 1911, at Indiana University, Bloomington, Indiana being incorporated by the State of Indiana on April 15, 1911. In 1941 the name was changed to Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity. It was first known as the Kappa Alpha Nu Fraternity. The efforts of three men, Elder W. Duggs, Byron K. Armstrong, and John M. Lee, were outstanding in the early development of the fraternity.

Beta Lambda Chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi was founded on the campus of Lane College in 1940, by 12 Would-Be Scroller Club (W.B.S.).

The fundamental purpose of Kappa Alpha Psi is achievement. Kappa Alpha Psi strives to obtain for all its members all of the benefits which occur from membership in a modern college brotherhood.

Omega Psi Phi Fraternity was founded November 17, 1911. It was founded by Oscar J. Cooper, Ernest E. Just, Frank Coleman and Edgar A. Love. Its purpose is to unite men with a strong bond of brotherhood and similar ideals. The cardinal principles are Manhood, Uplift, Perseverance and Scholarship. The Fraternity was founded on the campus of Howard University in Washington, D.C. The Progressive Kappa Sigma Chapter was founded at Lane College December 3, 1957.

The Fraternity has two major projects, the Annual Talent Hunt and the National Achievement Week. The purpose of the Talent Hunt is to promote the discovery of new talent. During National Achievement Week the Fraternity presents awards to the outstanding citizens of the community.
The idea of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity was conceived on Beale Street in Memphis, Tennessee, in the summer of 1910, by the late A. Langston Taylor. The tiny acorn from which the giant oak of Phi Beta Sigma has grown was planted on Friday, January 9, 1914, at Howard University in Washington, D.C. by the late A. Langston Taylor, Leonard F. Morse and Charles L. Brown along with nine others. The ideals are Brotherhood, Service, and Scholarship. Three National Programs are; Bigger and Better Business, Education and Social Action. The Motto is "Culture for Service; Service for Humanity".

The Delta Epsilon Chapter was established at Lane College on Sunday, February 6, 1916. Rowan A. Neal, who was made in the spring initiated it on Lane College's campus.
THE PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL is an organization composed of two representatives from each local undergraduate of the various Greek-letter organizations on the campus. The purpose of the council is to coordinate the activities of the fraternities and sororities; to regulate and set up standards for probationary periods; to promote wholesome relations between the organizations; and to consider constructive and cooperative areas through which the various organizations may serve the best interest of Lane College. It is a democratic organization, organized and administered by students, with a faculty advisor.

ATHLETICS

In the Zodiac, there are signs which are synonymous with strength. Such strength is exhibited by our various athletic squads. Athletes are an uncommon brand of people; they doggedly train until their bodies are in top condition. Hours-on-end are spent in learning new plays and techniques. Personal pleasures are sacrificed in hope that victory will be the reward.

What makes a team? It is more than just a group of guys who play the same sport simultaneously. A team is a group of young men who together sweat and undergo grueling discipline and practice. These players know that their individual performances must blend and complement each other if defeat is to be averted. These are young men who enjoy their sport; men who are willing to substitute petty differences with brotherly love, knowing that in order to be effective, they must function as a family unit.

The coach is a most influential factor. His is the task of teaching and example setting. The coach must coordinate the talents of his players so that the team "sings" with harmony rather than cacophony. Along with the players, the coach relishes praise and bears the brunt of scorn. Through it all, he must maintain his composure (though the team members may find themselves doing fifteen or twenty extra laps!). The coach is a leader of MEN!!

The men who make up the Athletic Department give their best; they laugh, and in agonizing times, they cry. They give and do all this and more in order that each touchdown, home run, track record, and two-point play might be enjoyed vicariously by the crowd. We say "vicariously" because spectators will never completely feel nor understand the true meaning or the thrill of victory.

WHAT A THRILL TO LEAVE THE KNOWN FOR THE UNKNOWN, TO PUSH OFF INTO THE MYSTERY AND EXCITEMENT OF TOMORROW.
YOURS IS THE CHALLENGE TO GO PLACES AND DO THINGS AND BECOME SOMEONE IN THE THRIVING WORLD.

Norman Vincent Peale
Close the door softly
Behind you this day,
Latch it with love
Before turning away
From these halls, ivy-grown
And the joys you have known
Through these years quickly flown—
Hold them fast, while you may.

Swing the door proudly
Before you this day,
Chart your own course
To the goals you survey—
To a dream caught in flight,
To a world set aright,
To a destiny bright
Seek them well on your way.

MY BUDDY’S DEAD

I’ll hate you till the day I die.
You made me hear my buddy cry,
I heard them say, “this one’s dead.”

It’s a large price he had to pay,
Not to live to see another day.
He had the guts to fight and die,
He paid the price, what did he buy?

He saved my life by losing his,
But who gives a damn, what a soldier gives.
His wife does and maybe his son.
God have mercy, they are about the only ones.
